RYAN DUNN
inane systems

Digitally trained as an Industrial Designer, Ryan Dunn's work explores the spaces between the worlds of art and design. His work is informed by a desire to explore the boundaries of what is possible, to push the boundaries of what is considered 'normal' and to challenge the boundaries of what is considered 'beautiful'. Allowing for a certain level of imperfection, his work is a celebration of the beauty in the ordinary.

ABOUT

Ryan Dunn was born in Margate in 1984 and now lives and works in London. He studied Multi-media Textile Design at Loughborough University (2006) before completing Masters Degrees in Industrial Design at Central Saint Martins (2008) and Anthropology at UCL (2014).

Spanning collage, textiles and critical design, Dunn's practice draws on his academic background to occupy a realm between the worlds of art, design and ethnography. His work reconfigures and subverts imagery from our everyday domestic landscape – furniture, garments and adverts – to create strangely normal objects and compositions that explore society's relationship with material culture.
